SCHOOL LIBRARIANS' DAY 2017 AT HEATH EDUCATIONAL BOOKS, SUTTON

Thursday 5th October 2017

Don't miss this opportunity to hear inspirational talks, visit Heath's wonderful Showroom and enjoy convivial like-minded company. Lunch and refreshments will be provided and a 30% discount will be applied to library book orders placed on the day.

NON-FICTION: NON-FUNCTIONING?

The world of school libraries has changed much over the last few years. Emphasis in the Curriculum placed upon reading (fiction) for pleasure, increased availability of online resources, downsizing of libraries to give schools much needed extra space and an exam driven KS4 with few research opportunities has all led to some schools questioning the need for non-fiction books. This session will consider why we should not abandon our stock to Google and show how we can rekindle its use despite these adversities and why this is important.

Sarah has over 20 years' experience as a professionally qualified librarian in schools both in the independent and maintained sectors. She delivers a wide range of training courses for librarians, teachers and students across all sectors on library and work skills topics and she has also written publications and online training courses for the SLA.
