Enter your optional session choices in the online booking form

On Saturday, all delegates are allocated 2 optional sessions (plus 1 slot for visiting the Exhibition).

On the website booking form, please choose your preferred session for each time slot. One of your choices must be for visiting the Exhibition.

Please make sure you have read through the descriptions of the workshops first.

Topic links – we have highlighted where sessions link to the curriculum, these are indicated for each optional session (TL).

We will do our utmost to try and ensure everyone gets their top choices, and will contact you directly if this is not possible.

Use these boxes to pencil in your optional session preferences before booking online.

Session 1. 09.50 – 11.00

1a. Exhibition

1b. Illustrated Text and Emotion

Eva Eland and Rob Starling, Andersen Press; (with Joy Court as Chair)

As a picture book maker I'm interested in how I can engage the reader emotionally – and how this can help children (and adults) explore their own feelings, within the safe boundaries of a picturebook. Books that are specifically about difficult subjects, can also offer parents and teachers a tool to start a conversation with children and explore the subject together. Children might surprise us with just how much they are actually capable of – and how resilient they are, when we give them the opportunities to explore their own feelings and how to deal with them – rather than trying to protect them from difficult emotions and adversity.

Aimed at: library staff for all age ranges; teaching assistants; teachers

TL: Well-being; Resilience

Supported by: Andersen Press

1c. Character Toolkit for Teachers: practical, hands-on character and positive education tools and techniques

Elizabeth Wright and Frederika Roberts

Frederika Roberts and Elizabeth Wright have been running a character and positive education programme in schools based on what works best and research evidence from around the world. Their aim is to always provide the best possible character and positive education interventions in schools, so that children can have the internal resources to guide them through any challenges. In this workshop, they will bring you a range of simple activities for you to experience first-hand and use in your own school or library straight away. There will be activities suitable for primary and secondary school, with many activities being cross-generational. Be prepared to join in and have fun – this workshop will be highly participative!

Aimed at: library staff; newly qualified teachers, teachers, senior leaders; other school staff

TL: PSHE; RE; identity

1d. 'Hot topics': The Importance of Discussion – CILIP School Library Group's book group discussion packs

Rosalind Buckland and Lucy Chambers, CILIP SLG

This workshop will focus on how reading can help children discuss books, thoughts and experiences. Articulating thought helps to embed learning; aiding pupils' understanding, helping them to develop culturally and socially as well as supporting their well-being. Using the SLG's Book Group Discussion Packs on Inclusion (LGBTQ), Conflict Resolution and Empowerment, delegates will see how the prompt sheets (one for each carefully selected book) can facilitate creative discussion, in order to explore topical issues. This session will involve a hands-on opportunity to trial these excellent teaching aids, explore and discuss the books involved, and will include ready-to-implement ideas on how they can be used to empower children to discuss a range of issues, and through doing so build confidence and a sense of identity.

Aimed at: secondary library staff; book group leaders; teachers; teaching assistants

TL: Reading for pleasure; British values; Literacy; Well-being; Self-esteem

Session 2. 11.45 – 13.00

2a. Exhibition

this workshop is sure to leave your stock wish list overflowing!

Aimed at: primary and secondary library staff; teachers; SENCOs; teaching assistants

TL: Inclusion; Literacy; Illustration

2b. Creating Whole School Reading Communities

Jon Biddle

Jon is the winner of the 2018 Egmont Reading for Pleasure Experienced Teacher award and coordinates the national Patron of Reading initiative.

In this session, I will be sharing practical suggestions on engaging the school and local community in reading for pleasure. This will include ways to fully involve children, staff and parents, tips on creating a school reading 'buzz' and ideas about how to use social media effectively. I will also be sharing successful strategies that help create classrooms full of enthused and motivated readers, as well as providing plenty of book recommendations.

Aimed at: primary library staff; teachers; literacy co-ordinators; teaching assistants

TL: Reading for pleasure; Literacy

2c. Diversity and Inclusiveness across the Key Stages

Jake Hope

Jake will take you on a tour of some of the best inclusive picture books available. With a focus on picture and wordless books, he will talk about how to use them inclusively, with all ages. With tips and suggestions of how to use these effectively in the library or classroom,

2d. Enabling Students to become 'Digitally Savvy' in a Real-world Context

Emma Wallace, Senior School Librarian, St Benedict's School, London, Dr Julie Greenhough, EPQ Centre Coordinator, St Benedict's School, Donna Saxby, Librarian and Digital Literacy Coordinator, Kingham Hill School

JCS Online Resources brings together speakers from two schools to share what they are doing to ensure their students are 'digitally savvy' in a real-world context. The session will showcase how they are supporting the acquisition and implementation of digital search skills to develop independent learners. Emma and Julie will describe the successes and challenges of their collaboration in delivering a range of lessons across KS4 and 5 supporting the schools' wider strategic plan for independent learning. Donna will demonstrate her 'just in time' approach for Geography and History topics with Years 7 & 9 to build confidence in using and creating resources ethically and efficiently online.

Aimed at: secondary library staff; teachers; e-resource co-ordinators; senior leaders

CL: Well-being; Cross-curricular; Digital skills

Supported by: JCS, the home of online trusted resources for schools worldwide

Session 3. 14.00 – 15.10

3a. Exhibition

and what support is available to change the landscape, including highlighting a new resource, Breaking New Ground.

3b. Words for Well-being

Julie Walker, founder of Words for Wellbeing

Bibliotherapy uses poetry, literature, song lyrics, etc. to engage with those experiencing mental health and wellbeing issues, loneliness and isolation in order to access the person beneath. We use the written word in varied and imaginative ways to improve the self-esteem, confidence, social and communication skills and resilience of participants.

In this workshop you will gain an understanding of how bibliotherapy works, its relevance to your work, and experience a short Bookchat session.

Aimed at: primary and secondary library staff; SENCOs; teaching assistants

TL: Resilience; Communication skills; Well-being

3c. The Importance of Diversity in Books

Caroline Ash (Deputy Head, Blyth Horton Grange Primary School), Aimée Felone (Founder, Knights Of), Jill Coleman (BookTrust), Leila Rasheed (author), chaired by Ken Wilson-Max (publisher and author)

In the light of research showing a lack of diverse writers and characters in literature for children and teenagers, this panel will discuss why diversity is important for readers; what the challenges are for schools and libraries;

3d. Supporting Well-Being through Songs and Rhymes

Ben Lawrence, Co-ordinator, Children's and Young People's Library Service, Calderdale Libraries

Songs and rhymes are our first encounter with the rich world of language and literature. This will be a highly practical session exploring different songs and rhymes to invigorate your RhymeTimes. Delegates will explore how to best structure their sessions, tell stories musically and find out for themselves why singing has such a positive effect on everyone.

Aimed at: early years, primary library and school staff

TL: Self-esteem; Literacy; Confidence; Music; Language Development
